GOD IS LOVE AND NOTHING ELSE.

PRaise THE LORD.

LETTER FROM GEORGE O. BARNES

DARKNESS ON THE FACE OF THE DEEP.
By subsequent discovery, as God reveals it to us in following verses, we learn that this pall of "darkness" was only an outer wrap of successive inner folds of destruction. The significance of without form and void only dawns upon us as we study the subject in detail. Under this environment of darkness lay the bitter waters of death, called in scripture the "deep." Under the waters lay the smothered "dry land." Under the dry land, as in a mighty womb, the germs of vegetable growth; "four-footed beast and creeping thing" lay still and helpless. "Under the face of the deep," in relentless imprisonment, as in fetters of brass, the glancing wing of fowl that afterwards in swift flight, gave the "open firmament of heaven," every flashing fin of fish that was soon to dart through the yielding waves, all were paralyzed and powerless to move.

This is a wondrous revelation, often overlooked, that what we call the "six days creation" is really neither more or less than a "resurrection of the dead" and glorious fact that one day, in the not distant future, let us hope, is to be manifested in such power of Godhead that the like has never been witnessed in the Universe.

Really, this consummation of the "glory" ahead is but the familiar, oft-rehearsed lesson of the ages past. To find it as plainly revealed in the 1st of Genesis, as in the last of Revelation, tells us a wondrous story of God's LOVE and Power, that ought not to be lost upon those of us who count His Glory the chiefest good.

And this is what lies on the surface of the narrative in Genesis. A faultless creation of God destroyed and buried deeply by an adversary. How? For what? We may not know just now, for nothing is revealed. Or, if revealed, no man has discovered the "open secret" yet.

But someone must have destroyed, as surely as someone must have created. The argument of Paley has never been answered. It stands in its impregnable might, an everlasting bulwark against the audacity that would sweep the Almighty out of His Own universe. It has been laughed at; sneered at. Anyone, ill-disposed, can do that. But answered fairly, never! It is substantially this, as generally known: "I find a watch on the highway; I discover evidences of design in its structure! It must have had a DESIGNER!"

There you have God. Take another legitimate step on Paley's ground, the territory of scripture and common sense, as well.

I find this time-machine is arranged to bless mankind and make men happier and better. It must have had a good designer. "A tree is known by its fruits." God, the Good, is known by His works.

But I discover that this thing, designed to work good, has been meddled with. It no longer keeps time and blessing, but is out of order and deceives all who trust it. Surely a DESIGNER is here. So when I find God's order disarranged, His harmonious creation "without form and void," I know a DESTROYER has been at work. And he is not far from it. The scripture knows but one from Genesis to Revelation.

A GOOD GOD AND A BAD DEVIL.

Is the only possible clue to scripture, or the phenomena of life about us.

To make the Good God the Author of evil in any shape or form, is to so hopelessly confuse the eternal principles of right and wrong, good and evil, that all controversy is at an end, and there is left nothing worth striving for. Most thinkers see this; and some hope to evade the difficulty by introducing a FETTERED theory of evil, because they think an utter denial of Jehovah's connection with it trenches upon the Jehovah authority, as the Great Supreme, Whose will is done in Heaven, Earth and Hell.

Suffice here to say that this does not free the character of God in the least. Qui facit per alium facit per se is a fixed axiom in law and grace, and the "receiver is guilty as the thief," has never been gainsaid. Besides, there can be no permission without approval. Does God approve evil? Perish the thought! And, finally if I am to let go one attribute, let it be Omnipotence, a thousand times before LOVE. Thank God one has not to part with either, once Good God and a bad devil, as revealed in scripture, are known by us.

Here then are the germinal facts of Gen. 1:2-1:4. A Good God creates, in His Own way, a PERFECT HEAVEN AND EARTH.

A bad devil, for some reason not known, has power to MAR what God had made.

The "four-footed beast," "without form and void," "emptiness and confusion," lies in heap upon ruin; in this strange order, or disorder, from outside to in, viz: 1. A pall of utter darkness. 2. A covering of the waters of death, salt and bitter. 3. No signs of life, but shut up in those waters, were (1) the pure, sweet creatures, that afterwards emerged in separate, and (2) the living germs of fish and fowl. 4. A hidden and submerged earth. 5. Within that drowned land the germs of grass and herb and fruit tree; and (2) "four-footed beasts and creeping things."

THE RESURRECTION.

That is what it is. No less. The last lesson is the first also. It is "chief of the ways of God." To restore a ruin needs more LOVE and power than to make perfect at first. Therefore Resurrection is God's crowning work. It is the spiral column of the Christian System, Paul and Peter, James and John being judges. There is no Christianity, or "New Creation" without it. Neither was there an old creation in Gen. 1, apart from it. See how God describes it:

1. He commands the light, to do what? To shine for the first time? Nay, verily. It had shone from the gray ages, before it was hidden by that pall of Satan that obscured it in the "four-footed beast." It shone with undiminished radiance underneath its dense covering of darkness. Light is the same light, in itself, whether "under a bushel" or "bed," or on a candlestick. It only varies for others. Therefore God "commanded the light to shine out of the darkness." (2 Cor. 4:6) as Paul says, with the Holy Ghost's perfect accuracy of description, God's mighty hand laid hold of the veil and "rent" it from "top to bottom," as in after days. Then all the light had to do was to "shine," just as it did before the obstruction was removed. It was resurrected from its grave. "It was not possible" for the tomb to "hold" it away.

2. Then another victim of Satan's malice was freed. The imprisoned waters that were good because from God, were separated by decree of power from the poisoned waters that the devil had marred, and were placed (except temporarily) beyond the destroyer's reach, "above the firmament," while those over which the adversary had power lay still below. What is this but "resurrection"?

3. Still a third marvel of risen and rising power. The poor, drowned earth, that lay in water-logged helplessness beneath the dark wave must share in the triumphs of this glorious time. For our God had set Himself the task of deliverance and delivered must all His imprisoned creatures be. "He laid His hand upon the ocean's mane," drew back the dread invincible of a drowned world and lo! "the dry land appeared."

4. Yet more does this wondrous story go on to tell. The living germ of plant and flower and fruit lay buried there. Under the sea the earth. In "mother earth," as in a womb, the seeds of all vegetable life and beauty. Well do we name her "mother earth," when we reflect on all she brings forth. "New birth," "resurrection," call it what you will.

5. Then God lights up the heavenly world. Is that resurrection also? Surely it is. Nothing but this can dash back upon science the charge of a cardinal blunder in Gen. 1. It needs not to assert that the sun is "created" after the earth. That were fatal, to put the planet before its legitimate centre of attraction. But a sun blotted out in darkness is conceivable. In after days when the "true light of the world" went out in blood upon the Cross, this very thing was re-enacted. Luke 23:44 tells us, "The sun was darkened," for it was Satan's "hour" and the "power of darkness," as the Savior Himself said. Thus a sun and moon delivered from a pall of darkness on the 4th day, is as genuine a resurrection as the rest. How simply the plain word of God frees us from the scientific blundering with which "zeal without knowledge" has too often handicapped the blessed Truth of God!

6. Next in the order of this "palimpsest" or "anastasis"—as we return to earth where we belong—comes the release of fish and fowl. These the waters hold in fast locked embrace, till "Elohim" bids them let go their hold; and then what wondrous sights appear! The glinting fin of fish; the glancing wing of beautiful fowl; these in the "open firmament of Heaven," those in the briny deep. "The blue above and the blue below" are peopled at last "according to their kind," and this new resurrection fills the sky with song and the deep sea with unaccompanied but ancient life. (To be Continued.)

CRAB ORCHARD.

—We now have regular night mails.
—We had a good rain Tuesday night and it is still falling this, Wednesday morning.

—Mr. D. R. Edmiston has had a new porch put up in front of the cottage in which he is living.

—A. M. Egbert killed a large black snake in his yard which measured over three feet in length.

—Miss Alice Hardin, who has been confined to her bed for several days, is again able to go about.

—"L." reported the raising of the Cleveland and Thurman flag, so it is unnecessary for us to add anything further here.

—Mrs. Mollie Scott and children have been visiting friends in Lexington. Miss Lula Stuart has gone to Woodford county to visit relatives. J. F. Holdam is in Meridian, Miss., on business. Mr. Morris Harris has charge of the store during his absence. Mrs. Margaret Harper is visiting her niece, Mrs. J. H. Hutchings.

—There were some 20-odd guests present at the marriage of Mr. Daniel Richert and Mrs. Mary Schneider last Thursday evening. Almost an hour was consumed in going through the ceremony, which was said by a German minister. An excellent and bountiful supper was prepared for the occasion. Mr. Richert selected Mrs. W. R. Dillion to superintend its arrangement, and those who were present say it was excellent in every respect.

Madison will have three fairs this season—Richmond, Kirksville and Berea. Thirty pounds of ginseng were bought Monday by Mr. J. W. Neff at $1.80 per pound. Dr. George W. Evans and C. S. Powell bought of the Garnett heirs at Glasgow, the Garnett House in this place. The wool season has closed. Covington, Arnold & Bro. bought 22,000 pounds; Crooke, Bennett & Urnst bought 14,000 pounds and G. B. Turley 10,000. The price averaged 23 cents. This brings into the county about $10,500. (Climax.)

The giant of all guns is in process of construction. Krupp's works are making a 130-ton gun for the Italian iron-clad Sardegna. It will be 52½ feet long with a bore of 15.7 inches. It will fire a steel shell of 1,630 pounds with an initial velocity of 2,411 feet per second, or one of 2,314 pounds at 2,000 feet per second.

How women can manage to sit bolt upright and not change a position, looking neither to the right nor left, during a sermon in church passes the understanding. A man will sit on the picket fence all the afternoon to see a ball match, put him in a church-pew three-quarters of an hour and he will wobble all over the seat.

The Business Manager in Casey County.

LIBERTY, June 26.—This ancient and quiet little town is undergoing a change, the first one of the slightest importance during the five years that I have visited it semi-annually. This change is the old court-house that would have been an eyesore to any settlement in Kentucky, even in the days of Daniel Boone, which has been razed to the ground and which in a few months will be replaced by a new and elegant one—one that will make Casey's sister counties in the bluegrass ashamed of themselves, so much more modern in structure and elegant in appearance will her court-house be. A four dial clock will keep the citizens posted on the time and a large bell will toll the hours as well as ring for the conveniences of courts, the latter having originally been done by the jailer yelling from the court-house door. The court-house will be a great improvement to the town and besides helping it in appearance it will more than likely cause a feeling of pride to rise in the breasts of the people, who will improve the town themselves by tearing down the rickety old frame buildings and substituting them with brick ones. The merchants are all monied men and I can but believe that they will as soon as they see the fine court-house completed, build business houses and dwellings that will be in keeping with it. Although 7 miles off of the railroad, Liberty has a good many advantages and I would not be at all surprised to some day, not far distant, see it a flourishing town rather than the sleepy looking village it now is. She has got considerable money and lots of good people, two of the essentials for a good town.

After "doing up" Liberty for a nice lot of job work, a goodly number of subscribers and a pretty good deal of filthy lucre, I set sail—or rather the head of Anderson Nunneley's bragsaddle horse, which had only one gait and that an up and down trot, toward Yosemite—the Sodom of Kentucky, and perhaps of the United States—size of place taken into consideration. Although the citizens of this place patronize the INTERIOR JOURNAL liberally and that would make me like a place if anything would, I must say I think Yosemite the meanest town—morally speaking—on the globe. With population of 200, and a prohibition town to boot, there are 9 bar-rooms—just three times as many bar-rooms as there are stores. Six shooting scrapes have occurred within the last month, the last one occurring while I was there Tuesday in which Doc Coffey shot Scott Belden in the leg over a trivial affair. Not being used to such doings I asked a good many questions concerning the difficulty, but got little or no satisfaction, the people not noticing it nor caring the least for it. The troubles generally rise between the employees of the railroad and men employed by lumbermen.

There are, of course, good people, who use all efforts to suppress this devilry, but utterly fail, the lawless desperadoes being in the majority.

George W. Drye formerly a Lincoln county boy, but now living in Casey, is canvassing that county for a race for sheriff. He is an industrious young man, a good citizen and would fill the place as acceptably, if not more so, than any republican I know of. If it's got to be a republican give it to George and if he don't make a No. 1 sheriff draw on the Junior of the I. J.

A good store and dwelling situated in Middleburg for sale; or will swap for a bluegrass farm in Lincoln or Boyle. Apply or address B. M., care of this office.

I spent Monday night at the house of a good old Casey county democrat, who is up to the times on entertaining, but who is several decades behind on politics. Speaking of the convention, which was then in session, he told me that he had heard at the Cross Roads store that evening that Garfield and Hayes were nominated and would make the race on the republican ticket. I told him that Garfield was assassinated fully 7 years ago, to which the old gentleman expressed his surprise by saying, "Well, I had not heard a word of it, but as you look like a pretty truthful fellow, I reckon I will have to believe you." In 1880 there were only 5,000 Jews in Jerusalem, now there are said to be 30,000. The recent persecutions in Russia are said to have caused a greater part of this increase, and many are said to have come from Germany.

HARRISON AND MORTON, REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

The republican candidates are not as well known as they might be so we give the following sketches of their lives:

Benjamin Harrison was born in Hamilton Co., O., August 20, 1833; graduated at Miami University in 1852; studied law in Cincinnati; removed to Indianapolis, his present home, in 1854; in 1860 was elected reporter of the decisions of the supreme court; was commissioned 2d lieutenant in 1862, raised a company, was made its captain and on the organization of the regiment was chosen colonel and just before the close of the war was brevetted brigadier general, was re-elected reporter about the same time and served four years; ran for governor of Indiana in 1876, but was defeated; was elected U. S. Senator in 1881 and served his term with some distinction. He was Blaine's chief attorney in his libel suit against the Indianapolis Sentinel, which paper charged the latter with living with his wife before he married her.

Levi Parson Morton was born in Vermont May 24, 1822 and is the son of a Congregational minister; received a common school education and went to clerking in a dry goods store at Concord, N. H., entered the firm of Beebe, Morgan & Co., Boston, in 1854; established the firm of Morton & Grinnell, in New York, which soon "busted," paying 50 cents on the dollar, the balance afterwards being made good with interest by Mr. Morton. He is now a member of Morton, Bliss & Co., brokers, one of the largest firms on Wall street; was defeated for Congress in 1876, but elected in 1878; was offered the office of Secretary of the Navy by Garfield, but declined and was afterwards appointed Minister to France for his faithful work with his barrel for the victorious ticket in 1880. He is a pretty decent sort of a man, but would never have been taken up by his party, but for his large wealth, which he liberally dispenses for the "good" of the cause.

THE KIDS ORGANIZING.

(Special Dispatch to the Interior Journal.)

LOUISVILLE, June 28, 4 P. M.—The Convention of Democratic Clubs of Kentucky is well attended, considering the short notice, and enthusiasm is away up. It was called to order in Leidenkrantz Hall at noon by Chairman M. C. Alford, of the State Central Committee.

David R. Murray was then chosen chairman and Willis Ringo secretary. A call of the counties showed that some 30-odd clubs have already been organized. A plan for general organization was adopted, which will be given next issue.

An immense ratification meeting will be held to-night with Watterson, Blackburn, Hardin and other big guns to do the talking. W. P. W.

There is but little left to tell of the Chicago Convention, after the comprehensive telegrams sent by Mr. W. P. Emerson, of the Louisville Times, who has a peculiar faculty of getting at the meat of matters and expressing in a quarter of a column what the dailies would spread over a page. After the nomination of Ben Harrison had been made unanimous the next thing was to set up a vice presidential nominee. George Denny crowded to the front and got in Bradley's name in a speech chiefly notable for its extravagant and false statements and the thundering voice in which it was delivered. He was treated very discourteously throughout being gaped and having "time" called on him every few seconds. He made Bradley a demi-god and promised the solid South and a good many other things if the convention would fall down and worship his golden calf—the bench-legged bantam of Garrard. Phelps and Levi P. Morton were likewise put in nomination and the vote being taken the result showed Morton 591; Phelps 119; Bradley 103; Bruce (col.) 11. Morton's nomination was then made unanimous and the Convention, after throwing out a little sop to the temperance element, adjourned without day.

The vote that Bradley received surprised everybody. Most of us had looked upon his candidacy as a joke and regarded him as the victim of an insatiable longing for the unattainable, with an overleaping ambition far beyond his station or ability. That he should have received 103 votes, scattered through 18 States is therefore a wonder and shows what gall and a lack of material can do for a man.

The ticket is not near as strong as it might have been, though it is more respectable than any combination that could have been effected with the candidates before the convention. Harrison is chiefly noted for being the grandson of the president, who only lived a month to enjoy the honor, while Morton's capacity lies principally in the fact that he has a "bar." Harrison is a very rich man, too, so with the aid of the money devils who clamor for further protection, we may expect the country to be flooded with money to debauch the honest voter. Let it come; they can stand the deluge and cast their votes as they will for Cleveland, Thurman and tariff reform.

On the eighth and last ballot the Kentucky delegation voted Alger 1; Blaine 1; Gresham 2; Harrison 15; Sherman 7, but when "Gen." Bradley saw the way the cat had jumped he ambled to the front and seconded the motion to make Harrison's nomination unanimous and promised to give him Kentucky. He had a hard time getting the chair to recognize him, but he was finally successful, and when he got to shooting off his catch phrases the boys began to call "time" and the general had to retire in disgust.

HARRISON'S grand-daddy, Gen. William Henry Harrison, Old Tippecanoe and Tyler too, was absolutely sung in to office by his admiring partisans, but Benjamin will hardly get there Eli by that or any other method. Hard cider cut a big figure in that campaign too, but the republicans dare not revive that interesting feature in these prohibition days, as much as they would like to. The barrel will cut a big figure, but it will not be a barrel of cider.

WALTER EVANS does not love "Gen." Bradley and thinks his contest for the vice presidency the most laughable thing of the day. He has been charged with instigating the Chicago Tribune article, but he characterizes the statement as a simple falsehood.

We regret to learn that our friend, Hawthorne Hill, proprietor of the Maysville Republican, has been forced to make an assignment with liabilities about $5,000. It seems a bad year for republican papers.

Just wait until the Kentucky newspaper convention gathers itself together at Danville next week, and the admiring world will see a convention as a convention.—[Louisville Times. Jess so.]

THINGS are not going to be lovely in the republican camp in Ohio this campaign. Foraker's treatment of Sherman, first giving him a half hearted support and then abandoning him when he might have stood some show is not calculated to restore harmony in that State. At any rate the democratic ticket, with the best man in Ohio on it, stands more than a fighting chance for success there.

The Chinese are enthusiastic over the nomination of Harrison. One in Louisville exclaimed with delight: "Hullah! Chinese can't vote, but he can whoopee like hellee for Hallison!"

The Carpenter Case.

(To the Editor of the Interior Journal.)

SOMERSET, June 27.—The testimony in the Carpenter case all in this morning. Lawyers will begin the argument immediately. Thus far the trial has progressed quietly and harmoniously.

Gen. Wolford addressed the "world and the rest of mankind" last night on the vital importance of sending him back to Congress. I was a little sick and hence unable to hear him.

Messrs. Hill, Alcorn and Welch, of Stanford, and Yerkes, of Danville, are arrayed in force for the defense. Dick Warren is manipulating the prosecution with his usual zeal and ability and rendering efficient aid to the representatives of the commonwealth.

Somerset was visited this morning by a general and much needed rain, which makes the clever population look more clever still. J. A. B.

—"The Continental degree, or the degree of '76," a side degree in Masonry, and a great favorite with Gens. Washington, Marion and other patriots of the Revolution, was conferred on Brothers H. M. Linney and Nick McDowell by Brother Green Clay Smith on Tuesday. The lesson taught by this degree is one never to be forgotten.

—Fred Handman, who gives employment to more poor people than any one man in town, and whose account the banks find no objection to, contemplates the erection of large and permanent buildings to meet the demands of his beer bottling business. The only thing which causes him to hesitate is the fear that about the time he gets the buildings done our bosses may think it advisable to enact a few more temperance (?) laws.

—The democracy of Boyle county organized a club Wednesday night. R. P. Jacobs was elected President and R. S. Nichols Secretary. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws. E. W. Lee and C. R. Anderson were sent to Louisville as delegates to the State league, which meets in that city to-day (Thursday). When we get in working order the republican conspirators against the peace of the NATION had better look out.

—Mr. Robert Hann, who left Danville last March for Topeka, Kansas, to embark in the real estate business, failed to get at once "into the swim," and preferring not to wait, after 5 or 6 weeks, to Denton, Texas, where he formed a partnership with his brother, Jno. A. Hann, a leading dry goods merchant. The proceeds of 50 shares of stock in the Farmers National Bank of Stanford, to be sold next Monday, he expects to invest in the Denton enterprise. While in Topeka he noticed with gratification the prosperity of the Larimer family, born and raised in Danville. Harry is the principal of a high school, the equal of ordinary colleges; Jerry Boyle Larimer is a successful lawyer; William, the owner of a large dry goods store, while the younger boys all have lucrative employment. All are first-class, socially, and did a good thing for themselves when they left Kentucky for Kansas.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President,

GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.

For Vice-President,

ALLEN G. THURMAN,
Of Ohio.

For Judge of the Court of Appeals,

JUDGE W. S. PRYOR,

The Man who Swears will not Steal.

To the Editor Interior Journal.

The Rev. Mr. Noel, of Lancaster, is claiming the authorship of the remark for which Sam Jones has had the discredit, that "a man who swears will steal." Mr. Noel is laboring under a strong delusion if he believes such foolish expressions as that will add to his reputation for wisdom and piety. [Courier Journal.] We have too good an opinion of Mr. Noel to think he would claim the authorship of such damnable rot or give utterance to it.

You are right and I thank you, Walton, for your direct manner in resenting such an attack, but here comes my own dear Dorso, reminding me of the dark days of our own:

Dick should remember the days when he swore, and drank too; and yet we never believed that he would steal, although his expression seems to cover all mankind and himself included.

O fie for shame! I wonder if the C. J. and others will make amends? I will try them through the columns of your bold, outspoken paper. The paragraph in the Courier-Journal is calculated to do me an injury and cause me to answer a great many questions, therefore I will give the origin of the expression, "A man who swears will steal." I disclaim the authorship and thank you for your quick reply. Between five and six years ago in Richmond I gave my opinion, publicly, of what I saw take place not privately; viz: One Saturday evening on the street, a number of negroes were arrested for stealing, the officer having to knock one of them down to take a pair of pants from him. The last named circumstance created considerable excitement, during which several cries of "hang him!" "hang him!" mingled with such oaths as I have never heard fall from a man's lips, although I have been a soldier for over four years, have mingled with sailors and a railroad man for 40 years—all proverbial sets. "Cuss like a sailor," "Steal like a soldier," "Wicked as a R. R. man," yet I never heard such talk "swearing" as I heard in Richmond that night, and a man was pointed out to me worth over $100,000 who was chief "cusser." It preached next day from the text Jer. 17:9, "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked," and in speaking of our natural inclinations to sin I spoke of what I saw and heard the previous night. Commenting upon it and without any distinctions as to the great sins of stealing, taking God's name in vain, killing, etc., I made this remark, "that the unregenerated human heart was filled with all these things—Matt. 15:19—and the unrestrained heart would do one as well as the other and that the man who would rob God of his holy, good name and use it so profanely, would, if there were no law to punish, steal." Tipton, in commenting on the sermon, said: Noel said, "A man who swears will steal." I did not say it. A man can swear and not take the name of God in vain, but it is wrong to swear at all. Sam Jones read what Tipton said about it, which had been quoted and commented on in the Courier-Journal, and he preached a sermon on it on which the Journal commented at length, but neither Sam Jones nor Rail Road Noel is the author of the above, but French Tipton, present editor of the Climax, Richmond, Ky. Arise, Mr. Tipton, and speak.

About two weeks ago Sam Jones lectured in Richmond. I heard him and it being the first time we had ever met, I thanked him for defending what I had said over five years since. Next morning I was in Tipton's office and said: "Tipton, did you know that a sermon I preached some time ago brought Sam Jones before the public on the same subject? You commented on it in pretty strong terms, do you remember?" "Yes," said Tipton, "a man who swears will steal." "Just so," said I, "last night is the first time we have met." I paid for a year's subscription to the Climax and walked out. Now here comes the Courier-Journal, "In and About Kentucky," commenting on somebody, I don't know who, but I deny the charge. I expect Sam Jones would do the same thing, that is as to the authorship of the phrase. French Tipton is the author, give him the credit for it. This is pretty lengthy; cut it down to suit yourself. Give the solid truth, though, and you watch the papers and do my fighting and I'll back you until the "cows come home." Speak right out and don't fear I'm public property and open for criticism. I'll do the preaching and both of us will watch and pray. Don't use such harsh words as "d-e-r-o-t," people will think you are mad and you are too hard on Tipton—equity—peace and Cleveland and Thurman.

The Work of a Minute.

A ray of light travels 11,160,000 miles in a minute.

In the United States the telephone is used 595 times, the telegraph 136 times in a minute.

In a minute the lowest sound your ear can catch has been made by 990 vibrations, while the highest tone reaches you after making 2,228,000 vibrations.

In each minute in the United States, night and day, all the year round, 24 barrels of beer have to go down 12,096 throats, and 4,830 bushels of grain have come to bin.

In a minute an express train goes a mile, and a Pittsburgh street-car 32 rods; the fastest trotting horse 147 9-13 rods and an average pedestrian of the genus homo has got over 16 rods.

Of tobacco 925 pounds is raised, and part of it has been used in making 6,673 cigars, and some more of it has gone up in the smoke of 2,292 cigarettes, in the United States, in one minute.

In a minute we are whirled around on the outside of the earth by its diurnal motion, a distance of 13 miles, and at the same time go along with the earth on its journey around the sun 1,080 miles.

Every minute 600 pounds of wool grow in this country, and we have to dig 61 tons of anthracite coal and 200 tons of bituminous coal, while of pig iron we turn out 12 tons an of steel rails 3 tons.

In 60 seconds our country makes 15 kegs of nails, 12 bales of cotton come from the fields, and 36 bushels of grain go into 149 gallons of spirits, while $66 in gold is dug out of the earth. In the same time the United States Mint turns out gold and silver coin to the value of $121, and 42 acres of the public domain have been sold or given away.—[Pittsburg Dispatch.]

The great painting, "The Prodigal Son," which went up in a flame a few years ago, was once exhibited in old St. James' Hall. Among those who one day sat and gazed at the noble centerpiece, with its magnificent side panels of the Prodigal, were a farmer and his wife. After looking long and silently at the imposing picture of gorgeous revelry and the contrasting scenes of retribution and repentance, the farmer's wife, heaving a sigh, turned to her Giles, and tipping her head forward so as to look at him over her spectacles, said in earnest tones audible to all about her: "Ain't them nice pigs?"—[Buffalo Express.]

A speed trial between the telegraph and telephone from New York to Boston was lately undertaken at the Sun newspaper office, New York. The contest lasted for ten minutes; 330 words were delivered in Boston, ready for the printer, by telegraph, and 346 words by telephone. But many of the telephone words were incorrectly received. So the telegraph was the winner.

Europe has an abundance of widowed Emperors just now. Germany has two, the wives of William I and Frederick III; England's Queen and Empress of India has been long widowed; the once beautiful Eugenie, of France, still lingers at Chiselhurst; and Carlotta, the unfortunate widow of Maximilian, once Emperor of Mexico, still lives in an asylum.

Few realize that in less than twelve years we shall have entered upon a new century. Happy, indeed, has been the lot of the man who has lived in the closing years of the 19th century. He has witnessed the grandest achievements in science, if not in art and literature, that the world has ever known.—[Albany Journal.]

A republican paper sees ill luck in Thurman because there are so many 13s connected with him. There are 13 letters in his name, he was born November 13, 1813, and he was nominated June 7 as a candidate for the suffrages of November 6, the sum of those two dates being 13. These figures do not worry the old Roman.

THE COMBINED STALLION,
Hamlet Denmark!

Will make the season of 1898 at my stable near Shelby City, in Lincoln county, on the Shelby City and Knob Lick Turnpike road, at $15 cash for the season, with no insurance, or $30 to insure a living colt, sound and a right.

Hamlet Denmark is a dark bay, with plenty of style and action, has big tail and mane, stands 16 hands high, 5 years old this spring. As a 5-year-old combined horse he has no superior, if an equal, in Kentucky having won first prizes at various fairs in the State in harness, under saddle and in model rings; and now as a harness horse, as a saddle horse, as a combined and 5-year-old horse, I believe he has no peer in Kentucky.

Hamlet Denmark is by King Denmark, he by Star Denmark, he by Jones' Denmark, he by d Back Denmark, the 4 mile race horse he by Imp. Hedgerford.

First dam by Chorister, he by Contract, imported, 3d dam by Jim Brown, he by G. E. Scroggins and he by Sir Archie, third dam by Duke of Bedford, 4th dam by Pirat and he by Chance Larcher, fifth dam by Kentucky Blossom and he by Imp. Blossom, 6th dam by Brutus, 7th dam by Sredra.

Hamlet Denmark's dam by old Lexington, 2d dam by Emory & Walker's Wagner.

It is needless to say that for harness and saddle, and for action, beauty, style and elegance as a breeder, Hamlet has no superior, and he transmits these qualities to his offspring.

As a token of my appreciation of past favors, and an inducement for future assistance I will give $50 in premiums for the best three colts by Hamlet to be shown in 1898 at the Danville Fair.

Good pasture will be furnished at $2.50 per month. My personal and special attention will be given to insure no prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.
